

Crocker Art Museum staff are unable to authenticate or perform appraisals on works of art or artifacts for the general public. The Museum also does not provide conservation services. If you are interested in having a work of art appraised or conserved, we suggest that you consult a reputable art dealer, appraiser, auction house, or conservator.

The following list includes national professional associations and organizations that provide a referral service, as well as individuals who identify themselves as professional appraisers or conservators in Northern California. This list is not inclusive and does not indicate any preferences by the Museum.
